

SOUND SENSE IN FAIRBANKS' TALK

FORMER VICE-PRESIDENT SAYS ASSAILANTS OF PUBLIC SERVANTS ARE TRAITORS.

BEFORE ADVERTISING CLUBS

Roundly Scores Muck-Rakers and Others of Their Lik and Cautions Against Indiscriminate Criticism.

Omaha, July 19.—"Men who will wantonly and maliciously assail our public servants—no matter what their political faith—may be, and who are faithful to public duty—are traitors to the state, no matter how lofty their hypocritical professions may seem to sound." So said Former Vice-President Fairbanks, in the course of an address before the Advertising clubs of America today.

"One of the marked features of recent years has been the indiscriminate abuse of men in public position. The malicious muck-raker flourishes for a time, but he has come to be an object of contempt, since his recklessness and insincerity have become manifest. Abuse of the liberty of the press, the attempt to malign other men and by falsehood to destroy their character, whether in private or public life, has come to be recognized as the blackest among the entire catalogue of crimes."

"No public official, however high, should be immune from just criticism. But they should not be subjected to much of the abuse that is heaped upon them by the muck-raker and sensationalists, who are actuated only by sordid mercenary motives or by some other equally ungenerous purpose far short of the public interest. There is perhaps nothing more reprehensible than the loose impugning of the motives of the Chief Executive; the downright misrepresentation of his acts; distortion of his record by suppression of the truth or by pure falsehood. No possible good can result therefrom; on the contrary, in the end confidence in the government itself is undermined. It may be diverting to a certain class to witness such brutality towards the head of the nation, but upon sober reflection they must perceive the harmful results which flow from it and which, in the final analysis, damage all alike."

"What has been said of the executive applies with like force to the legislative branch, and to the judiciary. Like the President, the law-making body should welcome honest criticism and fair debate, but wholesale abuse, unfounded attacks, disrespecting the integrity and patriotism of those who frame and administer the people's laws, begot distrust, want of confidence and doubt as to the beneficence of the government itself."

"If measures are devised in special interest turn the light upon them and their authors with unparagoned severity. But we should differentiate with great care the good from the evil; uphold those who are devoted to the faithful and honest discharge of public duty, and smile without mercy those who betray their public trust. We should not, however, heap upon all indiscriminate abuse and thereby bring the government itself into contempt and disfavor; nor should we overemphasize the wrong and underemphasize the good and thereby give an erroneous impression of the true condition of American life."

"We shall find, in the final analysis, that executive, congressional and legislative are composed of men who are neither better nor worse than the people themselves; when we heap unwarranted abuse upon them and strike down their hands when we should uphold them, the injury, of course, is not entirely personal to them, but in a large measure falls upon the institutions whose agents they are. It is impossible to discredit and destroy the servants of the state who are worthy without impugning the state itself."

"Socialism has been making some headway in recent years. Its progress, no doubt, is due in a considerable degree to a too general impugning of the good faith and the patriotism of those upon whose shoulders, by our choice, rest for the time being, the delicate and difficult responsibilities of government."

"We have many questions before us in the world of politics and in the field of business. There are some people who are not free from concern as to their solution; but it seems to me that there need be no fear that no matter how numerous or complex they are, they will be settled in our common interest. If we shall bring to their consideration sober-minded and patriotic judgment."

"Speaking of advertising, Mr. Fairbanks said, 'Does advertising pay?' has been the theme of numerous and labored utterances and there are, no doubt, remote and obscure corners of the country where it is still a vital, living question; but, as a rule, it has become a dead issue, and many of the successes we witness in the market place have been achieved by the fullest recognition in practice of the affirmative of the proposition. 'The best advertiser and the best merchant are synonymous, and the poorest advertiser is usually the one who flounders in a court of bankruptcy. Of course, all advertisers do not succeed, but I think it will be generally admitted that there are fewer failures among them than among those who do not advertise. The faculty of bringing their business fairly and favorably before the public."

Mr. Fairbanks also condemned extravagance in public and private affairs.

CRIPPEN'S METHODS WERE MOST BRUTAL

Details of Crime Most Cruel in Police Annals—Search for Parts of Body Begun.

(BY UNITED PRESS.)

London, July 19.—Details of the methods used by Dr. H. H. Crippen in murdering his wife, Belle Elmore, show that the crime is one of the most brutal in English criminal annals. A large force of men with snuffing dogs today began digging the missing head, foot and hands of the slain woman. The arrest early today at Canterbury of a man gave the police hope that the alleged murderer had been captured, but it developed the man was not Crippen.

Defends Her Character. Chicago, July 19.—Defending the character of Mrs. Hawley Crippen, Bruce Miller, with whom Crippen said his wife had threatened to elope, said: "Mrs. Crippen's character was above reproach and my friendship for Mrs. Crippen was purely platonic."

London, July 19.—The inquest on the supposed remains of Belle Elmore, actress wife of Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen, the American dentist, brought out nothing which is calculated to throw any additional light on the murder or give more certain clues to the murderer's whereabouts. The inquest, however, disclosed an incredible slackness on the part of the authorities of Scotland Yard, who took no measures to keep Crippen under observation, although they admit that they had suspected foul play for some time before the doctor disappeared.

TEXAS SOLONS WILL WAR ON INSURANCE

Legislature On Lone Star State Convention In Special Session Today For That Purpose.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Austin, Texas, July 19.—In accordance with a proclamation issued by Governor T. M. Campbell, the legislature of Texas convened in special session today and was called to order at two o'clock this afternoon. The specific purpose of the session as named in the call is to repeal the fire insurance act of 1907 and to enact such other legislation as will prevent a combination or trust of fire insurance companies doing business in Texas. Since the call for the session was issued the State Fire Rating Board has given a decision to the effect that the fire insurance rates are unreasonably high and has ordered sweeping reductions. The insurance companies are preparing to make a strong fight to prevent any general reduction in the present rates, despite the assertion of the business interests of the state that the rates are excessive beyond all reason.

But while the repeal of the obnoxious fire rating board law is named as the specific purpose of the session a belief prevails that other and deeper reasons exist for the Governor's action in calling the session at this time. The political opponents of Governor Campbell have not hesitated to declare that politics furnished the real motive for his action in calling the legislature together. In support of their declaration they point to the fact that the Governor concluded his call with the statement that he would submit such other matters of legislation as he might deem proper during the session.

At the present time the State of Texas from end to end is in a turmoil of political excitement over the gubernatorial and legislative campaign. Four leading candidates are engaged in a bitter contest for the governorship which will be decided next Saturday when the State-wide primary will be held.

The prohibition question figures as the leading and almost the sole issue of the gubernatorial campaign. In this connection it is charged by the anti-prohibition leaders that Governor Campbell's real object in convening the legislature in extra session is to forestall the possible primary nomination of O. B. Colahan, the candidate of the anti-prohibition faction for governor, by recommending and bringing about the enactment of restrictive legislation that will practically shut the saloons out of business in Texas.

General Estimate Shows That Janesville Roundhouse Is Growing Rapidly in Importance. During the past year there has been an increase of sixty per cent in the amount of work done in the different departments of the roundhouse and also a corresponding increase in both the payroll and in the number of mechanics, repairmen and other classes of workmen. This increase, which is merely approximate, was determined from figures in the possession of A. M. Zimmerman of Chicago, chief storekeeper, who with Elmer Clapp, traveling auditor, inspected the local roundhouse yesterday. Although the estimate was made from general figures, it is thought to be low rather than too high, but in either case, gives a good indication of the growing importance of the Janesville shops.

SIXTY PER CENT INCREASE SHOWN

General Estimate Shows That Janesville Roundhouse Is Growing Rapidly in Importance.

During the past year there has been an increase of sixty per cent in the amount of work done in the different departments of the roundhouse and also a corresponding increase in both the payroll and in the number of mechanics, repairmen and other classes of workmen. This increase, which is merely approximate, was determined from figures in the possession of A. M. Zimmerman of Chicago, chief storekeeper, who with Elmer Clapp, traveling auditor, inspected the local roundhouse yesterday. Although the estimate was made from general figures, it is thought to be low rather than too high, but in either case, gives a good indication of the growing importance of the Janesville shops.

THE EX-PRESIDENT WILL NOT DICTATE

ROOSEVELT TO TAKE NO PART IN PICKING CANDIDATES.

WILL SPEAK FOR NEPHEW

Colonel Lays Great Emphasis on Announcement He Intends Others Shall Do Nominating While He Continues to Hold Conferences.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 19.—Theodore Roosevelt has announced he will not take part in the congressional campaign in Herkimer and Onondaga counties, where his nephew, Theodore Douglas Robinson, is seeking the Republican nomination. Mr. Roosevelt declares Robinson has expressed the desire his neighbors should not be influenced in their choice by any outside interference. In the event Mr. Robinson is nominated, Mr. Roosevelt declared he would make several speeches in his district.

"I want it distinctly understood that I shall take no part in nominations anywhere," was the way the ex-president put it.

"You may quote me as saying that," added the colonel.

This announcement of the ex-president goes as to every state and national fight, even to the governorship of New York. In an interview last week he was quoted as saying that "I shall pick the governor of New York state." But he laid emphasis on his inclination to let the others do the nominating. He will continue to hold conferences with the state political leaders and "sound sentiment," but as to picking out candidates, never, at least, so he says.

Silent on Governorship.

When asked if he had a candidate in mind for the governorship, the ex-president maintained a sphinxlike silence.

Colonel Roosevelt made his announcement regarding his refusal to dictate nominations after a visit to Seneca Falls by Douglas Robinson, his brother-in-law and Theodore Robinson of Herkimer, son of Douglas Robinson, who is seeking the Republican nomination for congress as a progressive in the Herkimer-Onondaga district. In speaking of the visit Colonel Roosevelt dictated this:

"My nephew, Theodore Robinson, is a candidate for the congressional nomination in the Twenty-seventh district. He told me that he did not desire me to take any part whatever in the nomination whatever because he especially desired this matter should be settled by his neighbors in Herkimer and Onondaga counties absolutely without any outside interference of any kind, but he desired to know whether in the event of his nomination I would come up and speak for him. I told him that of course I would, for I have long hoped that he would go into active politics because I have a high regard for his judgment and ability and he and I are in accord in views on public questions.

In Line With Hughes.

The "views" on public questions which Robinson holds, as they affect New York state, are in line with the policies for which Governor Hughes has fought and which Roosevelt has taken up for the governor. Robinson is one of the upstate progressives.

At his Utica appearance Colonel Roosevelt will make his first political speech defining his attitude toward the congressional candidates. Mr. Roosevelt would not go into the possibility of his indicating other congressional candidates besides Robinson in this state.

PATTEN NETS PILE ON COTTON.

Chicago Speculator Said to Have Made $2,000,000 on Recent Sale.

New York, July 19.—The high price of cotton has proved most profitable to James A. Patten, the Chicago speculator. According to his intimate friends in the local pit he will not about $2,000,000 profit from the sale of 300,000 bales of actual cotton taken up on May contracts, after paying $250,000 for insurance, freight charges, etc. This cotton, which he has been selling in Europe and this country at 10 cents, was secured below an average price of 11 cents.

It also became known that Mr. Patten, who has been of the opinion for months past that the crop situation was most unfavorable, got into the wheat market some weeks ago and on his heavy bull operations has cleaned up so far over $1,000,000.

BARONESS HANGS IN ASYLUM.

Anisia Louise de Massey, Serving Murder Term, Strangles With Towel.

New York, July 19.—A suicide by hanging, Anisia Louise de Massey, who said she was a baroness, was dead in the Matteawan asylum. She had been taken to the asylum after conviction for killing Gustav Simon, a shirtwaist manufacturer, November 19, 1908. Justice Blanchard sentenced her on May 18, 1907, to seven years and five months in Auburn, whence she was transferred to the asylum.

SPEAKER CANNON HURLS DEFIANCE

SPEAKER ANNOUNCES HE WILL STICK IN RACE FOR CHAIR.

AGAIN SUFFERS FROM HEAT

Aged Campaigner Rubs Head and Neck With Ice, but Shows No Sign of Collapsing While Delivering Address.

Emporia, Kan., July 19.—Joseph G. Cannon has no intention of dropping out of the contest for the speakership of the next house of representatives. He said that he would abide by the will of the Republican caucus if the Republicans control the next congress, but that no "muckraking magazines" could make him say he would not be a candidate.

This statement of his position followed an address in which Mr. Cannon defended the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill and his course in connection with it and gave answer to Senator Bristow's Winfield speech.

The speaker did not mince words in speaking of several of Bristow's statements, saying the senator "either knowingly or ignorantly, did not state the facts."

He said he would abide by the will of the Republican caucus if the Republicans control the next congress, but that no "muckraking magazines" could make him say he would not be a candidate.

Speaker Cannon's remark on the speakership were made just before he left the platform to catch a train for Burlington, where he made his third political speech in the Kansas primary campaign.

In Fight to Finish.

Speaker Cannon's utterances on the speakership follow verbatim:

"I am speaker and on March 4 next, I will have been speaker for eight years, a longer continuous term than any man ever served as speaker since the foundation of the government. There has been only one who who has had a longer service as speaker than I have had and there was an interim of four years in his service. That was Henry Clay, who in the aggregate served ten years as speaker. Somebody has got to be the scapegoat through magazines and letters. Candidates for congress are asked: 'Will you pledge yourself not to vote for that old czar for speaker?' Oh, the scapegoat. This little 164 pounds of clay cannot bear many sins off into the wilderness. If my constituency is as kind to me as it has been for 36 years I will go back. If God spares my life, and he in the next congress, either in the majority or in the minority, and I would rather be there in a Republican minority, a real virtue Republican minority, than to be one of an apparent majority that could not take account of stock and know from one day to the other whether it was the majority or the minority. They wanted me to pledge that I would not be a candidate for speaker if the Republicans have a majority of the next house."

Can't Be Bulldozed.

"They will meet in caucus and select a candidate for speaker. I will be in that caucus and I will vote for the man the caucus selects. I know of no scheme I have committed that should bar me from entering a Republican caucus. If you ask whether I want to be the speaker of the house of representatives longer than eight years, I have been speaker that long because my friends thought I could be most useful as a member of congress in that position. But as long as God lets me live the muckraking periodicals and the so-called independent or insurgent Republicans shall not make me say that I will not be a candidate for speaker any more than they shall make me say, if I am again elected to congress, that I will not vote when my name is called."

Fights Off Heat Attack.

Speaker Cannon, just before beginning a speech, again suffered much discomfort from the heat. While Representative Miller was making an introductory speech Mr. Cannon rubbed his head and neck with ice. However, he showed no signs of collapsing when his time for speaking arrived and he began his speech on schedule.

After beginning his speech, however, Speaker Cannon proceeded with his accustomed vigor.

Speaker Cannon closed his speech by replying to Senator Bristow's recent charge concerning the tariff on rubber.

MISSOURI BANK CLOSES DOORS.

State Examiner Takes Charge After Assistant Cashier's Arrest.

Stedalia, Mo., July 19.—The Bank of Tipton at Tipton, near here, was closed and placed in the hands of State Bank Examiner Swanger. The deposits amounted to $35,000. The cause of the failure is not given. A. T. Adams, acting cashier, was arrested at Tipton last week on a charge of grand larceny because of his alleged failure to record the transfer of certain telephone stock. He was released on bond.

Eats Ice Cream Cones; May Die.

South Bend, Ind., July 19.—Edward, the three-year-old son of Alonzo Heston of this city, is critically ill from poisoning and his recovery is doubtful. The lad ate ice cream cones freely the day he was taken ill and his sickness is ascribed to that cause.

Area of New Orleans.

In point of area, New Orleans is the second largest city in this country.

Robbed of Toxic Qualities.

A process has been discovered by which tea and coffee are robbed of their toxic qualities without interfering with the flavor.

An Insidious Remedy.

The Buffalo News has discovered that rum and honey is a fine remedy for grippiness. It is to be hoped the News will not find that its cold has become chronic.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Soft Answer.

"Murphy, did you say you did lick me with yer eyes shut?" "I did, Mither Doolan, sir. Ye see I always shut me eyes when I'm dreamin'. I have a drink."

The Grasshopper's "Ears."

Grasshoppers have their organs of hearing at the base of the abdomen, that is, at the same place where the corresponding organ of the Noctuid has been discovered.

Wedding Note.

A grain of rice which lodged in a bride's ear ten years ago has just caused her death. How very fortunate for the bride that her well-meaning friends didn't throw old shoes.

Too Ambitious.

"Some men," reflected the veteran turnkey, "manage to break into jail, by workin' too hard tryin' to help their wives break into society."

In the politics of the country and the councils of their party if they were lacking in caution and shrewdness. Politics, they know full well, is not a game of chance, but one in which foresight, skill and discretion are requisites. They realize, too, having been successful in the game, that there is a point at which their advice and assistance would be welcome. The cry of "attention" has already been raised in Albany, and it is a cry that can be made effective by the machine leaders if the attitude of the President or the ex-President should seem to justify it.

However, the time will come when Mr. Taft and Mr. Roosevelt will not only be excused in taking sides, but be driven to do so by the force of circumstances and the demands of public opinion. Then their entrance into the political fight will be natural and graceful, as their avoidance of it at the present moment is tactful and politic.

DOUBTING THOMASES.

This world is full of doubting Thomases. They want to believe something but they can not just bring themselves to do so. They are subject to spells of unbelief in everything in general. If such and such a thing were so why it would be all right. The doubting Thomases in politics are the men who are sure the state is all going to wreck and ruin but they prefer to talk about it instead of putting their shoulders to the wheel and helping out.

There is no excuse this summer for holding back in the political fight. The conservative republicans, the Taft republicans if you please, have organized throughout the state and endorsed candidates for the various offices, both assembly and on the state ticket, and it is up to the republicans to support them. For governor, E. T. Fairchild stands for Taft and the republican principles. He is a strong, sterling man and even the most doubting Thomas can find nothing in his personality or his platform to object to. George B. Hundert of Superior is the conservative candidate for lieutenant governor. A strong man in the state senate for years, he stands before the people asking their support that is due him from all loyal republicans.

M. J. Cleary of Blanchardville is the conservative or Taft republican candidate for insurance commissioner and a better fitted man for the position would be hard to find. For the attorney general's office Levi Bancroft stands to the forefront in both legal ability and claim to the office over all his competitors. Doubting Thomases may find some flaw in the candidates for the various offices but if they would abandon their custom and look only on the bright side of the matter, believe as do others, that success will perch on the banners of the Taft republicans, they would find life much more worth living.

Even the candidates themselves are ashamed of the primary law and the requirements that compel them to ask for aid from friends all over the state. Some day the law will be wiped off the statute books and the good old party politics will return.

The Industrial and Commercial club is worthy of the support of every citizen who is anxious to see Janesville succeed. Now is the time to boost and help the good cause along when help is needed.

Janesville is going to have a Fourth of July celebration next year under the auspices of the United Spanish War veterans that will be a steam-winder.

Roosevelt is to make his western trip in a private car. This is not news, although the fact that he is not paying his own expenses may be.

Speaker Cannon alarmed his friends by his sudden illness in Kansas, but the reports yesterday show that he is still game and in the ring yet.

This is good weather after the heated term but still some people are bound to complain over something and the weather always fits.

Taft's nineteen twelve boom is about to be launched. Meanwhile Taft is enjoying the sun breezes on a really true vacation trip.

New York has many candidates for governor in the field and if given a chance the people might pick out one to suit themselves.

Illinois is having a fine time with its candidates who want office, whether the voters want them or not.

PRESS COMMENTS.

Out Both Ways.

The Minneapolis Journal says Bryan is too fast for his party. In Wisconsin the Democrats think Willie is so slow that they dropped him in their state convention.—Milwaukee Free Press.

The Light Brigade.

It's a brave Democrat who went to Milwaukee and faced the guns of those Democratic papers, the Journal and News, who are now doing all they can for Senator La Follette.—Eau Claire Leader.

Salvation Trust?

Mr. Rockefeller, looking comprehensively into the future, sees a great merger of all the churches. But neither he nor Mr. Morgan, our most successful mergers, have as yet applied for the job of bringing it about.—Milwaukee News.

Suspicious Loquacity.

Senator La Follette, in the last issue of his magazine, devotes eight columns to explanation why he voted against the postal savings bill. He could have said it in one sentence: "Because he wanted to rob President Taft of the credit of splendidly redeeming a party pledge."—Madison Journal.

Seeing the Light.

The Democratic chairman of the Democratic convention says that the leading followers of Senator La Follette are mere office seekers and are not to be trusted by Democrats. This fact has been self evident for some many moons.—Vauclan Record Herald.

Primary Farce.

Two incidents of the week illustrate the moribund condition of the primary election law in Wisconsin. Senator La Follette finds it necessary to have his campaign manager formally announce that he will abide by the result of the senatorial primary, that he will retire from the contest if he is not the primary nominee. Such an announcement, coming from the chief sponsor of the law is an admission that the law in itself is without force. It is only necessary because Mr. La Follette in the past has repudiated the law when the candidate of his choice was not its beneficiary.

The Democratic state convention found itself so hopelessly divided on the subject of the primary that it could not agree on any platform announcement regarding it. So it ignored the subject, but by an overwhelming vote decided to nominate candidates for state offices.

On the one hand there is the father of the law compelled to explain that he purposes now to stand by the law and on the other hand the Democrats returning to the state convention nominating system.

It was a staggering blow which Senator La Follette and his political agents gave the primary law when they led the bolt against it two years ago, unwise and uncalculated for the time, and establishing a dangerous precedent which has now returned to harass and confuse them.—Milwaukee Free Press.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

WE EAT TOO MUCH.

Are you too fat?
If so and you want to reduce your flesh quit eating.

That is the way Miss Ruth Armstrong of San Francisco solved the get thin quick problem. She fasted thirty days and reduced her weight from 100 to 110 pounds.

During the fast she took nothing but water and declares that after the first day or two she never felt better.

There is no doubt we eat too much. In a recent magazine article Upton Sinclair, the author, tells of his resort to fasting in order to cure certain ills. He had tried everything else and was in despair.

Sinclair claims he cured himself of various troubles by long fasting. He also says he did the most severe mental work during his fasts and that his mind to be unusually clear.

We eat too much. The habit of crowding three full meals into a little stomach every day is enough to ruin any organ of less tough structure.

Because of our continual gorging the food is not properly assimilated, the waste is not eliminated and remains in the system to poison the blood.

When to this stuffing custom are added our habit of living in rooms not properly ventilated, especially in winter, our lack of exercise and artificial methods of life the wonder is not that we are sick, but that we should survive at all.

The gluttony habit is a relic of the age of savagery, when food was scarce and men lived a merely animal existence and stuffed themselves like the brutes.

We eat too much. To be sure, the man who is employed in severe physical labor needs strengthening food at more or less frequent intervals, but his heavy exercise eliminates the waste, and the deep breathing tones his blood. We who do not thus labor need scarcely half the food we are accustomed to use.

Moses understood this. He very soon the fasting instituted by the Mosaic code had more than religious significance. It was also for physical well-being.

A good rule to follow, whether one believes in long fasting or not, is—When in doubt, don't eat.

The trial of this cure costs nothing, and, indeed, in this time, when the cost of living is so high, it has the added virtue of economy.

We eat too much.

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

By WALT MASON.

(Copyright, 1909, by George Mathew Adams.)

Do Morgan's spring another book, to furnish joy for future ages; it bubbles gently, like a brook, through something like a thousand pages. When William D. Morgan, published "Joseph Vance," I said of worth it was the limit; its beauties (time would but enhance, and criticism could not dim it. His second book I gladly bought, while it was new and warm and seething; it somehow failed to hit the spot, and so I sent it to the bonfire. His third I bought with troubled mind, and doubt and dread and chill misgiving; its reading was a weary grind that almost made me tired of living. I don't intend to buy his fourth; I'd rather read Doc Cook's confession concerning gold bricks in the north, and swappings and shufflings for concessions. There never is a change of strain in things produced by him. Do Morgan, it's much like hearing one refrain forever played upon an organ. And does this grand old man intend to write forever, without stopping? We soon most class him with our friend, the gifted Helen M. Phillips.

THE TIME TO DRAW BUSINESS

Advertising Should Be Sent Out on Its Mission When Things Are Dullest.

The following from the Chicago Falls (Iowa) Exponent contains many facts true to nature:

"There is nothing on earth so mysteriously funny as an advertisement. The prime first and last and all the time object of an advertisement is to draw custom. It is not and never will be designed for any other purpose. So the merchant waits till the 'busy season' comes and his store is so full of customers that he can't get his hat off, then he rushes to the printer and goes in for advertising. When the dull season gets along and there is no trade and he wants to sell his goods so badly he can't pay his rent, he stops advertising. That is what some level-headed merchant does more of it and keeps in all the business, while his neighbor makes mortgages to pay the gas bill. There are times when you couldn't stop people from buying everything in the store if you planted a cannon behind the door, and that's the time the advertisement is sent out on its holy mission. It makes light work for advertising, for a chalk sign on the sidewalk could do all that was needed, and a half holiday six days in a week; but who wants to favor an advertisement? They are built to do hard work, and should be sent out in dull days, when a customer has to be knocked down with hard facts and kicked insensible with bankrupt reductions and dragged in with irresistible slaughter of prices, before he will spend a cent. That's the end and aim of advertising and if over you open a store, don't try to get people to come when they are already sickening out of the windows, but give them your advertisement right between the eyes in a dull season, and you will wax rich and own a fast horse and perhaps be able to smoke a cigar once or twice a year. Write this down where you'll find it every day. The time to draw business is when you want business, and not when you have more business than it is reaching new."

Announces Water is Boiled.

A tea kettle that whistles cheerily to let the housewife know that the water is boiling and that the gas may be turned down has been introduced in England and is meeting with favor. The kettle has no lid through which the scalding steam may issue, but is filled and emptied through the spout, which is sufficiently large. The absence of the lid not only prevents scalding but keeps any of the steam from escaping, which means that the water will reach a boiling point much more quickly than in the ordinary kettle. In the spout is a stopper which contains the whistle, and this is the safety valve of the kettle as well as the means by which announcement is made that the water is boiling.

She Could, But She Wouldn't.

Miss Johnston, an American girl, fair and twenty-five, was traveling in Germany with an elderly friend. One day in Berlin the two ladies had boarded a sightseeing car and were just comfortably seated when an Englishman of a pronounced sporting type got in and sat down beside the younger lady. After staring at her in silence for some time he inquired insinuatingly:

"Do you speak English, Miss?"

"Yes," replied Miss Johnston, without turning her head, "I do, but I don't care to."

Very True.

Stopping an ad. to save money in like stopping a clock to save time. If all thought alike, there would be no horse trading or advertising. Advertising is an insurance policy against forgetfulness. It compels people to think of you.

Like eating, advertising should be continuous. When today's breakfast will answer for tomorrow's, you can advertise on the same principle.

PASSING OF THE BILLBOARD

Growth of Newspaper Advertising Has Doomed More Ancient Method and People Have Come to Realize.

Speaking of the passing of the billboard and the reason for its disappearance, the Mansfield (O.) News says:

"Through the efforts of various associations, municipal, national, artistic and civil, the billboard in city and country is doomed to disappear. Some cities have already got rid of the billboard, others partially, and in every place it is observable that the rural signs that so mar the landscape are fewer in number and fast crumbling into ruin never to be repaired. The reason for this is universal and the good local or home one, with its large advertising patronage.

"The Philadelphia Evening Telegraph on this point says: 'They expect to find what they want in one department or another of their paper and have grown accustomed to depending on the advertising section for the replenishment of their daily and routine needs. The advertising columns of the press have superseded the ancient broadside and fiddle-dodger and because they have every advantage in their favor will eventually displace the martinet billboard. Even without the labor of the civil societies this result was bound to come, because shrewd merchants doubted the efficacy of advertising which only momentarily caught the eye and saw the value of a medium that circulated their appeals extensively, stamped them with the indorsement of its own prestige and carried into the household of the buyer.'

GAS PIPE'S OWN PLUMBER

When Fire Came From Leak a Lead Jacket Plugged the Hole—Explanation Is Simple.

Kansas City, Mo.—Chance sometimes works overtime to produce very insignificant results, and, as an example, here's the story of a fire in the joint basement below the Economy Furniture company, 813 Main street, and a pawnshop owned by O. A. Stevens at 813½ Main street. A lead jacketed pipe runs through the floor of pawnshop to a steam radiator above. A space near the pipe was left when the plumbing was done, directly below the hole is a gas pipe.

Now, at exactly two minutes of 11 o'clock in the morning, George A. Stevens, Jr., who works in the pawnshop, dropped a lighted cigarette through this hole; at the same second the gas discovered a small leak in the pipe and ventured out. The cigarette set fire to the gas and in a few moments a little blue flame was scorching the floor of the pawnshop. By the time several fire companies arrived the fire was extinguished and the gas pipe leaked no more.

Now, here's the explanation: The flame had melted the lead jacket and dripped down on the gas pipe and the leak was plugged.

Work of Ingenious Ant.

The spinning ant is found in India, in Ceylon, in the islands of Malacca and in Australia. This ant weaves its nest between two leaves of a tree, preferably the mango. It begins to build, or to weave, by drawing two leaves together. To do this it runs a line of its working material—material similar to the spider's thread—the length of the leaf and around it. While at work it clings to the leaf with its nails and, at the same time, draws on the leaf nearest to it with its mandibles. Sometimes the two leaves suitable for nest building are too far apart. Then the builder calls in its fellow-workers and they help it to form a chain. Each ant clings to the waist of its neighbor by its mandibles. Thus enchained, they work to build the nest of their comrade.—Harper's Weekly.

MURPHY COMMITTED TO REFORMATORY

Hobo Who Assaulted Brakeman Halahan at Evansville Will Spend One Year at Green Day Institution.

Peter Murphy, the young hobo who assaulted brakeman Edward Halahan with a stone at Evansville on the night of July 8, amended his plea of "not guilty" to "guilty" in municipal court this morning and was committed to the state reformatory at Green Bay for a term of one year. When asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced, Murphy declared that the conductor (J. R. Degan) slapped him in the face and kicked him in the stomach while helping him off the train; that he was intoxicated at the time and took revenge on the brakeman on the supposition that he was 24 years of age; that he was on his way to Madison, at the time. He was not quite certain whether or not he had ever been in jail before for any offense. Brakeman Halahan, conductor Degan, City Marshal Col. Droughton of Evansville and his assistant, Fred Gillman were present in the court room. The conductor stated that Murphy's allegation regarding rough treatment was utterly false. Brakeman Halahan has completely recovered from the effects of the assault.

"A HOUSE DIVIDED AGAINST ITSELF"

Two Factions Fighting For Possession of Lutheran Church at Fall Creek, Wis.

For extra mass.

San Diego, Wis., July 18.—The Lutheran church at Fall Creek, near here, is being claimed by two factions. Recently the German Lutheran synod appointed a new pastor for the church but when he went to take charge, he and his followers were refused the right by the pastors, then in charge. Two weeks ago, the pastor appointed by the synod and his followers succeeded in getting into the church when the watchers of the opposing faction were asleep, and they have been in possession ever since. The deposed pastor a week ago, was shoved off the porch while he was making faces through the window. The deposed faction incorporated and the new pastor also secured incorporation papers, so that the church has been incorporated twice, each incorporation claiming the other one invalid.

Could Make Nothing of the Cryptogram.

"I shall watch you with interest," she went on. "I know how to run a car—though you might not think it—but I don't know how to repair one."

"That's a man's job, anyway," said Orme, busy now with the lock, which was slowly raising the wheel from the pavement.

"Shall I get out?" she asked. "Does my weight make any difference?"

"Not at all," said Orme; but, nevertheless, she descended to the street and stood beside him while he worked. "I didn't know there were all those funny things inside," she mused.

Orme laughed. Her comment was vague, but to him it was enough just to hear her voice. He had got the wheel clear of the street and was taking off the burst tire.

"We seem fated to meet," she said. Orme looked up at her. "I hope you won't think me a cad," he said, "if I say that I hope we may meet many times."

Her little frown warned him that she had misunderstood.

"Do you happen to know the Tom Wallinghams?" he asked.

Her smile returned. "I know a Tom Wallingham and a Bessie Wallingham."

"They're good friends of mine. Don't you think that they might introduce us?"

"They might," she vouchsafed, "if they happened to see us both at the same time."

Orme returned to his task. The crowd that always gathers was now close about them, and there was little opportunity for talk. He finished his job neatly, and stowed away the old tire.

She was in the car before he could offer to help her. "Thank you again," she said.

"If only you will let me arrange it with the Wallinghams," he faltered. "I will think about it." She smiled.

He felt that she was slipping away. "Give me some clue," he begged.

"Where is your spirit of romance?" she called at him; then apparently relenting: "Perhaps the next time we meet—"

Orme groaned. With a little nod like that which had dismissed him at the time of his first service to her, she pulled the lever and the car moved away.

Tumult in his breast, Orme walked on. He watched the black car thread its way down the street and disappear around a corner. Then he gave himself over to his own bewildering reflections, and he was still busy with them when he found himself at the entrance of the Park Marquette. He had crossed the lush street bridge and found his way up to the Lake Shore drive almost without realizing whether he was going.

Orme had come to Chicago at the request of eastern clients to meet half way the owners of a western mining property. When he registered at the Annex he found awaiting him a telegram saying that they had been detained at Denver and must necessarily be two days late. Besides the telegram, there had been a letter for him—a letter from his friend, Jack Baxter, to whom he had written of his coming. Jack had left the city on business, it appeared, but he urged Orme to make free of his North side.

"A." might be the place to which "S. R. Evans" was directed, or at which he was to be found—a place sufficiently indicated by the letter. Now as to the "T."—was it "treasure"? Or was it "time"? Or "true"? Orme had no way of telling. It might even be the initial of the person who had penned the instructions.

Without knowing where "A." was, Orme could make nothing of the cryptogram. For that matter, he realized that unless the secret were criminal it was not his affair. But he knew that legitimate business information is seldom transmitted by such mysterious means.

Again and again he went over the abbreviations, but the more closely he studied them, the more baffling he found them. The real meaning appeared to hinge on the "A." and the "T." Eventually he was driven to the conclusion that those two letters could not be understood by anyone who was not already partly in the secret, if secret it was. It occurred to him to have the city directory sent up to him. He might then find the address of "S. R. Evans." If that person happened to be a Chicagoan, that it was quite likely that the "Chi." might mean something other than that "Evans" lived in Chicago. Perhaps, in the morning he would satisfy his curiosity about "S. R. Evans," but for the present he lacked the inclination to press the matter that far.

In the midst of his puzzling, the telephone bell rang. He crossed the room and put the receiver to his ear. "Yes," he questioned.

The clerk's voice answered, "Senior Portol to see Mr. Orme."

"Who?"

"I don't know him," said Orme. "There must be some mistake. Are you sure that he asked for me?"

There was a pause. Orme heard a few scattering words which indicated that the clerk was questioning the stranger. Then came the information: "He says he wishes to see you about a five-dollar bill."

"Oh!" Orme realized that he had no reason to be surprised. "Well, send him up."

He hung up the receiver and, returning to the table, put the marked bill back into his pocketbook and slipped into a drawer the paper on which he had copied the inscription.

CHAPTER II.

Senior Portol.

When Orme answered the knock at the door a singular young man stood at the threshold. He was short, wiry, and very dark. His nose was long and comely tilted at the end. His eyes were small and very black. His mouth was a wide, uncertain slit. In his hand he carried a light cane and a silk hat of the flat-brimmed French type. And he wore a gray sack suit, pressed and creased with painful exactness.

"Come in, Senior Portol," said Orme, motioning toward a chair.

The little man entered, with short, rapid steps. He drew from his pocket a clean pocket handkerchief, which he unfolded and spread out on the surface of the table. Upon the handkerchief he carefully placed his hat and then, after an ineffectual effort to make it stand against the table edge, laid his cane on the floor.

Not until all this ceremony had been completed did he appear to notice Orme. But now he turned, widening his face into a smile and extending his hand, which Orme took rather dubiously—it was supple and moist.

"Oh, this is Mr. Orme, is it not?"

"Yes," said Orme, freeing himself from the unpleasant handshake.

"Mr. Robert Orme?"

"Yes, that is my name. What can I do for you?"

For a moment Senior Portol appeared to hover like a timid bird; then he seated himself on the edge of a chair, only the tips of his toes touching the floor. His eyes danced brightly.

Talk to An Audience of 14,000 Voters Through the Gazette

The political candidate who wishes to reach the voters has an audience in the Gazette subscribers, many times larger than he can gather in any other way, and he can talk to this audience at much less expense through the columns of the Gazette (Daily and Semi-Weekly) than through any other medium.

Every political candidate knows the necessity of publicity and knows the value of getting a good argument before the people.

The Gazette's columns are open to candidates of both political parties but no advertising is acceptable that is slanderous in any way. Talking against an opponent is not as effective as good "reasons why" you should be supported.

For political advertising, the rate has been made special at 25c per inch. This is somewhat less than the transient rate for advertising and it will be the same to all candidates whether large or small space is used.

An announcement this size in Daily and Semi-Weekly Gazette would cost $11.25 and its remarkably cheap distribution when you remember that 14,000 voters will receive it.

If the Daily Gazette is used only, the cost would be $7.50 and the number of voters reached would be over 10,000.

Don't head your announcement "Mr. Voter", tell something more to the point. This advertisement might have been headed "Mr. Candidate", but it would not be as effective as the above head.

If you have an argument to present to the people and you know what you wish to say, but are in doubt as how to say it and how to display it, this department will lend its services to get you the best results from the space.
